A SPLENDID BEAUTY

THE INQUISITIVE NEWSPAPER MAN FINDS OUT ALL ABOUT HER ART DE—HOW BELLES ARE MADE

Donn Piatt describing a visit to a cosmetic establishment in New York city says

"What," we asked "are the articles that go to make the beautiful woman?"

"Well first of all is our vegetable enamel perfectly harmless, that gives the most delicate white—I may say dazzling—complexion known to the female world See," he continued taking a china pot from the counter "this is put on easily with a small sponge Permit me madam, it is soon removed and leaves no trace," and saying this he applied a small quantity to the forehead of our companion The result on the face of a clear brunette was startling The marble smoothness and at the same time the satiny texture, if we may use such an expression was marvelous Then he took another sponge and applied a most beautiful blush a rose color upon the white, that was perfectly charming in its natural and soft flush "And now" he went on "here is an exquisite instrument with which we trace the delicate blue veins that when done, defy the microscope of science

"But how is it possible to make the new face and the old shoulders match?"

"By making all new The face neck shoulders and arms have to be treated all alike.

[illegible] we asked

"Oh not at all we are only just beginning The eyelashes and eyes have to be treated The eyebrows receive especial attention We can not illustrate with you madam nature has done so much"

He might well say this for it is only once in a million such beautiful eyes, eyelashes and brows are given a woman He called to a young lady of the establishment and said "Miss Blank will you permit me?"

She pleasantly assented and taking a small ivory tablet he placed it under the eyelashes of one eye and then touching them dexterously and at the same time with the most delicate art he made the lashes so decided, so pronounced they seemed to actually grow He then penciled the brow, and when done the effect was most decided. The young lady was a blonde and with one eye treated and the other not treated the result was very decided

"Certainly this is all" we said

"Not all We give a delicate tint to the ear a rosy steel color to the nails We have powders for the teeth we leave nothing uncared for that goes to make perfection of a beautiful woman

"And are these things in general use?"

"Certainly you cannot find a brilliant complexion that has not been made so by art We read with great pleasure of the beautiful women of the fashionable circles of Washington and the summer resorts, for we know where they come from"

AN IMPORTANT GRAIN MOVEMENT

ORGANIZATION OF A CORPORATION FOR THE PURCHASE OF WHEAT IN THE WEST AND FOR ITS SHIPMENT TO THE SEABOARD AND EUROPE

A New York dispatch to the Chicago Times furnishes the following important information

A report has reached here that a large combination of capitalists grain dealers bankers and railroad men is being formed for transporting grain from the West to the Atlantic seaboard and Europe, and for protecting sales of wheat in London on commissions negotiations being effected here by telegraph The prospectus of the new company as contained in the preliminary articles of agreement which were signed Saturday last at New York by a few of the original promoters sets forth that this company has been formed in order to take advantage of the present opportunities for doing a large grain business with Europe, and satisfy the demand for some means to relieve the farmers of the West by bringing them into immediate connection with buyers and consumers in Europe The prospectus also shows that the promoters of this enterprise have already established strong business financial connections both in England and the United States, with large credits for the transaction of business on almost unlimited scale Contracts have also been entered into with railroad and steamship companies for cheap and uniform rates of transportation The scheme of this enterprise is briefly stated The main office will be in New York Agencies will be established in Chicago, St Louis, San Francisco and other cities of the West, and in London and Liverpool The agent in any Western city will inform the main office of the amounts of wheat or other grain that can be purchased The main office will communicate with the London office All communications in making sale will be sent by telegraph The London agent will sell say 10,000 tons of wheat, to deliver in thirty days at the ruling rates and will telegraph the transaction to New York The agent at Chicago will be instructed to buy wheat to fill this order

The company has European credits so that it can draw exchange against wheat upon sending bills of lading The agent at Chicago will pay the farmer 85 per cent in cash, according to the price of wheat in London on that day Fifteen per cent will be held back until the wheat reaches its destination, to cover losses and commission when the farmer will receive the final payment of the balance due. The commissions will be ½ per cent. The company will also have a large profit from the sales of its exchange on London prices, less commissions only and will gain the advantage of cheap transportation secured by the company They will avoid paying the present enormous expenses of making sales

There has been some private talk that this scheme has been projected by the friends of the Administration, in order to conciliate and combine the influence of the railroad companies and the Grangers by making them mutually interested in this enterprise, but this is all speculation It is a fact, however that Orville Grant, the President's brother, is one of the ostensible promoters, and other friends of the Government stand in the background, with large capital to operate with when arrangements are all perfected which will be in about six weeks

An office will be opened in New York this week, and next Saturday an agent will be sent to England to establish offices there. Orville Grant through his business connections in the West will probably control the Western agencies and it is said that the whole prospectus are those of R A Moore, banker of New York Girond Bros & Col Brice & Co C H Bowen and Julius Woolff The principal parties in interest have not yet been disclosed though it is certain that there will be a large and influential backing of capital and business talent

THE DECLINE IN THE PRICE OF WHEAT

The importance of a thorough knowledge on the part of the people of the causes now at work to produce extremely low prices for agricultural produce cannot be overstated Six weeks ago we thought it our duty to point out the effects on the prices of grain of full crops both in Europe and America The harvest season is now sufficiently advanced to enable the positive statement to be made that the grain crops of Europe and North America are above an average. The transition from a high price of grain to one lower than the average is inevitable In the London Times of August 18th Mr H Kains-Jackson, an unimpeachable authority upon the matters of which he writes publishes an elaborate review and estimate of the results of the present harvest in England and elsewhere The principal conclusions arrived at by Mr Jackson were the following

1. That the British crop will yield from fourteen to fifteen million quarters (112 000-000 to 120,000 000 bushels " after allowing one million quarters loss for blighted and laid fields the effect of frost during the blooming, and the thunderstorms of the last six weeks."
2. That in addition to the home produce, not less than eight, and not more than nine million quarters (64,000 000 to 72,000 000 bushels) will be wanted for the 32,000,000 inhabitants of Great Britain.
3. That judging from all accepted present estimates California and the other States of the American Union, Russia Hungary, Germany, France and Turkey will have eleven million quarters (88 000 000 bushels), which they must sell to supply the eight or nine million quarters required by the United Kingdom and for which that country will be the only competitor with those buying grain for speculation.
4. That the average price of English wheat will probably fall below 50 shillings per quarter in the course of the next three months [The average for the week ending August 15th was 58 shillings]
5. That the price to be paid for the wheat imported into England the coming harvest [illegible] will probably reach a total of $110 000 000 against $175 000 000 paid in the year just past.

In the London Times of August 14th Mr James Sanderson estimates the yield of the British crop at twelve and a half million quarters (100 000,000 bushels) But the facts are sufficiently well established that England will want less wheat from foreign countries than she has taken for four or five years past and that France and Germany instead of being competing purchasers with England for American wheat will be competing sellers with America in the English market —N Y Tribune Sept 2

A Little Farce —Last evening a stalwart middle aged woman, with arms bare and red as though just out of the wash tub, and calico sun bonnet set awry upon her head, was seen passing hurriedly up Union street, leading by the left ear a squint-eyed snub nosed freckle-faced carroty headed youth of 11 summers Fierce determination was seen in the eye of the woman and a wild fear of the wrath to come was depicted in the face of the boy As the pair passed a crowded portion of sidewalk, a bright idea suddenly struck the booby who was being thus roughly led away Suddenly pulling back he shrieked in a piteous, despairing tone "I'm little Charlie Ross I'm little Charlie Ross what was stole Won't somebody save me? There's a big reward offered for me! Too thin Ike!" cried a young hoodlum in the crowd "everybody knows you and yer old man" —Virginia City Enterprise

THE LEGISLATURE

The eighth biennial session of the Oregon Legislature begins at Salem to-day. We do not know that we have much to say to the new members. They have been pretty thoroughly instructed in convention, on the platform and in those harassing street corner communions with the managers commonly known as button-holing, in which the destinies of the State are shaped. The people are not looking for great things. They ask only that the representatives whom they have chosen shall redeem all the pledges and fulfill all the promises upon which they were elected, always excepting those pledges and promises which are better broken than kept. We presume every member enters upon his duties to-day with the understanding that unless he keeps faith with the people this time he will not soon have an opportunity to atone for his fault. Above everything else the State requires honesty and economy. Every measure looking to an appropriation of moneys from the Treasury should be carefully scrutinized before it goes to the Governor. It may be well, however, to remember that economy does not mean stinginess. There will be ample field for the exercise of that statesmanship which every honest citizen of common sense uses in the ordinary affairs of life. If every member will deal with the State as he deals with his fellow—knowing that if he is false to his trust he will find an enemy in the Commonwealth—we shall have better and fewer laws.

THE MISSOURI INDEPENDENTS.

It begins to look as if the Bourbons will not have it all their own way in Missouri this year. The ticket presented by the People's Convention meets with very general satisfaction. That it will receive the hearty support of the better class of Republicans is sufficiently attested by the mad opposition of the St Louis Globe, and the action of the Republican State Central Committee in recommending that no separate ticket be put in the field by the Republican State Convention, which meets Sept 24th.

Major Gentry, Independent nominee for Governor, is one of the most extensive farmers in that State. He is a Democrat, but not a politician, and although not very widely known is a strong candidate. It was expected that Norman J Colman or Gen Cockrell would be nominated by the Bourbon Convention. The latter was a Confederate officer who won some distinction in the field, and an honest man of fair ability. The St. Louis Republican opposed him bitterly not because of his Confederate record but because his claims to support were based solely on that record. The former is editor and proprietor of The Rural World, a paper which has been generally patronized by the Grangers. For twenty years, it has been out [illegible] the State making speeches to the people. He is more widely known among the people than any other man in the State. The rivalry between Colman and Cockrell was very strong. There was, also, an exceedingly bitter personal opposition to Colman, so bitter that a large majority of the Bourbon Convention threatened to withdraw if he was nominated. He is looked upon as a demagogue who, while he opposes everything that tends to throw the Grange into politics, is secretly using the order for his own political advancement. A compromise was effected in the convention, by which Colman received the nomination for Lieutenant Governor while Chas Hardin was placed at the head of the ticket.

The contest in Missouri will be close and full of interest. It is estimated that the German vote, 30,000 strong, will be cast for the People's ticket. Both parties are counting on the Grange vote. Senator Schurz announces his intention to enter the canvass in support of the Independent ticket. His wonderful ability and the prestige of a national reputation make him a tower of strength to the Independents. We trust there will be a first class Bourbon funeral in Missouri on the 3d of November.

THE DISTRICT SAFE ROBBERS

During the pendency of the investigation into the affairs of the District of Columbia, last winter, the safe of the District Attorney was broken open and sundry papers stolen therefrom. Subsequently one of the parties to the crime made a statement from which it appeared that certain persons who had something at stake in the investigation employed two professional burglars to enter the office of the District Attorney and abstract some documents bearing on the investigation which were supposed to be in the custody of that officer. The safe was robbed one dark night when the Capital police were conveniently absent from the scene. Several District and Federal officials were compromised by the disclosures, Whitely, Chief of the Secret Service Division, and Harrington, Assistant District Attorney, being among the [illegible]. The former was kicked out of the Secret Service about a week ago, and now Harrington is to be tried.

One of the safe robbers (Benton) who has been in confinement for some time, was recently released on the nominal security of $2,000, only one man, and he a non resident and unknown in Washington, being on the bond. In commenting on this proceeding, Forney's Sunday Chronicle says that the District Attorney's office is rotten to the core and intimates that it is a den of thieves and scoundrels. It quotes Harrington as saying before the District Committee "I am not an officer of the United States except as I am Secretary of the District. I have no commission at all as Assistant District Attorney. There is no such officer known to the law." Yet the name of Harrington appears on the [illegible] bond of one of the burglars signed as District Attorney, and it effected his release. The inquiry has already disclosed an extensive conspiracy and the charges of the Sunday Chronicle seem to be supported by the action of Attorney General Williams in taking the case out of the hands of District Attorney Fisher and appointing a special prosecutor. It is to be hoped that the conviction of the criminals will end the noisome District scandal.

The ancient theological riddle of the Trinity is solved at last by Alethes in The Index (religious newspaper) of September [illegible]. Here are a few choice sentences chosen at random: "In that Essence of God is the Eternal Act and Property of Paternity, the Eternal Act and Property of Filiation, the Eternal Act and Property of Procession." That is sublime. It sounds like a plagiarism from Onstein's speech on the Dog Law, and we are reminded more strongly than ever of that eminent statesman when we read that the Trinity of a certain learned doctor in the East is simply a monstrous "Plotinian Enneadity in Unity" or "Triadity, a Modalism, not a Hypostatical Trinity or Trinity of Persons." We have also an attractive mathematical theorem in the following: "God plus Paternity equals First Person of the Trinity. God plus Filiation equals Second Person. God plus Procession equals Third Person." So Alethes. The whole concern is thrilling and all the demonstrations of "The True One" are clear as mud.

The National Democratic Executive Committee have been consulting with leading Southern Democrats with a view to calling a Convention somewhere in the South to disclaim all sympathy on the part of Democrats with recent outrages in that part of the country. If the Courts of Tennessee will bring to justice the murderers who recently lynched sixteen negroes confined in Trenton jail, and if the militia of Louisiana will show their bayonets in the Red river country, there will be fewer outrages and no excuse for partisan conventions of leading Southern Democrats or Republicans.

Too much suffrage is what ails the District of Columbia. So say a good many of the heaviest taxpayers. They ask that the elective franchise be restricted to property holders or abolished altogether. It is understood that several of the committee who at the last session investigated the affairs of the District favor restriction of suffrage to property holders.

The story that Secretary Bristow will soon resign his place in the Cabinet is again denied. He can take care of his wife's uncle's legacy and manage the national finances as well. No one will grumble if he does leave Washington occasionally. Kentucky is only a little farther away than Long Branch.

The New York Times hopes that "the day for turning public departments into mere contrivances for carrying out the plans of wire-pullers and managers has gone by." "At any rate" it says, "we are convinced that the public have had enough of that system and will soon sweep it away." Just so.

The California Woman Suffrage Society has a constitution the sixth section of which reads: "All ladies with red haired babies and bald husbands are to be considered ex officio members of the Committee on Artificial Nourishment." Thus the bald husbands suffer.

A New York jury has solemnly pronounced the "Can can" not immoral. No one will be surprised. All things are possible with a New York jury.

POLITICAL ITEMS

Ohio District has been renominated by the Republicans without opposition and with great enthusiasm. His constituents thus show that they know a good Congressman when they see him. His renomination is as creditable to their appreciation of honest and intelligent service as it is well deserved by him.

Report has it that Mr. David A. Wells may become Congressman Starkweather's successor from the Third Connecticut district. Mr Starkweather's intimacy with the Washington Ring has ended his usefulness as a Representative, and in looking about for a successor his constituents will have to search a good while before they will find a more desirable man than Mr Wells.

THE SUMMER CAPITAL.—It is now more than two months since the President left Washington for Long Branch, since which he has not returned to the Capital, but during this period the operations of the Government have gone on and official business has been transacted at Long Branch as though the President were at the Executive office in Washington. Commissions have been signed by him and other official acts performed which by law are required to be performed at the Capital of the nation. The act of July 16 1790, chapter 28 section 6 volume 1 page 130 provides as follows:

"All offices attached to the seat of Government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere except as otherwise expressly provided by law."

This law has never been repealed nor has the President, by special act, been empowered to exercise his office away from the National capital.—Washington Corr. N. Y. Tribune.

To the Business Men of Portland.

A certain publication purporting to be a "Pacific Coast Directory," published by D M Bishop & Co, having been foisted upon the people of Oregon and the Pacific Coast generally, the publisher of Langley's Pacific Coast Business Directory begs leave to call attention to the fact that he is in no sense connected with the first mentioned publication, and to invite a comparison between the two works, the editions of Langley's publication for 186[illegible] and 1871 being extensively circulated among the business men of Portland. He would further state that Mr. Bishop makes mention of but thirteen towns and cities in the whole State, and that the following important places are omitted altogether: Ashland, Auburn, Aurora, Amity, Butteville, Brownsville, Baker City, Canyon City, Dallas, Empire City, Forest Grove, Gardiner, Hillsboro, Independence, Kerbyville, Lebanon, Milwaukie, McMinnville, Oswego, Springfield, Silverton, Scio, Sheridan and The Dalles—twenty one towns, some of which are among the most important business centers of the State.

Langley's Pacific Coast Business Directory

For 1875 contains a description and directory of over One Hundred and Twenty five places in Oregon alone, and it will be the aim of the publisher to make the forthcoming edition, which will be issued in December next, still more perfect and complete.

CITY.

THE NEW STEAMER "OHIO".—Steam was raised for the first time on Saturday on board Capt Scott's new boat, which lies at the foot of Salmon street. Work has been crowded forward with all possible expedition on this new craft for some weeks, and at length the boat is nearly finished. The intention was to take a thorough trial trip on Saturday, but it was found everything could not be placed in readiness. After steam was raised, the boat headed as far as Oswego and returned, just to give the machinery a little test and to see if everything was in good working condition. Only sixty pounds of steam was carried, but the little boat made very good [illegible]. The trial resulted very satisfactorily. By the middle of the present week the new boat will be ready for service. All that now remains to be done is to tighten up the steam jointings and impart a few finishing touches to the cabin. It was the original intention of Capt. Scott to christen the new craft the "Lightwood," but he has changed his mind and will call the boat the "Ohio." With the machinery, boiler and upper works, the Ohio draws only eight and a fourth inches, and with 100 tons of [illegible] it will draw only 18 inches. The [illegible] will be propelled by two engines, each of 25 horse power. The wheel is to be driven by gearing unlike the ordinary stern wheel boats, which will enable the power to be applied to a great advantage. Boiler, engines and machinery were formerly used on the old [illegible], but have been thoroughly overhauled, and are about as effective as if new. In the bow of the boat is placed a small engine, which is attached to the capstan. When required the engine can cause the capstan to revolve [illegible] by means of a hawser, the engine and [illegible] the boat can be pulled up over shoals without resorting to human power. Capt. Scott has demonstrated in the building of the Ohio, that a boat of extremely light [illegible] can be constructed which will be able to carry [illegible] able quantities of freight [illegible] corresponding capacity and draught has ever [illegible] built in the State. The Ohio [illegible] with express reference to running on the Upper Willamette river at all [illegible]. She will doubtless be able to [illegible] to points hitherto deemed beyond the reach of navigation.

LEG BROKEN.—Mr Horatio Cook, the well known undertaker, [illegible] yesterday resulting in the [illegible] of the right leg just above the ankle. He was driving a [illegible] to which was attached an express wagon containing a coffin, for a [illegible]. Just as Mr Cook came [illegible] corner of Second and Morrison [illegible] the lines became entangled in the [illegible] causing the horse to rear and [illegible] both the reins out of the [illegible]. The animal [illegible] violent manner, and Mr. Cook [illegible] the vehicle might be capsized [illegible] to get out. Finding that he could not get out of the express in any other manner, Mr C [illegible] with a leap, falling headlong to the earth. He was unable to rise, and on [illegible] his feet it was discovered that his leg was fractured. As quickly as [illegible] he was taken home, and Dr [illegible] the limb. Mr Cook's face and body is also considerably bruised by the violence of the fall. He is unable to [illegible] how his leg was broke and [illegible] whether it was from a kick or the fall. He will be confined to his [illegible] time to come. As soon as the [illegible] got [illegible], he ran down Morrison street to First, and [illegible] street to Keith's saloon, with the coffin still in the express, tumbling [illegible] the saloon mentioned the [illegible]

A REMARKABLE JURY.—The twelve jurors who were empanneled in the United States District Court on last Friday, in the [illegible] United States vs A C Witt, were [illegible] several particulars one of the most remarkable juries which has ever been called upon to try any case in the State. We have said remarkable, but the peculiarity consisted more in the physical status of the individual jurors than in any other regard. Without exception it was the oldest, largest and heaviest jury which has yet been called upon to sit in any [illegible]. The combined length of the jurors was 72 feet, an average of 6 feet each. The total weight of the jury was 2,097 lbs, an average of 174[illegible] lbs to each juror. The combined age of the jury was 583 years, an average of 48 years to the juror. Was that jury ever surpassed? The following gentlemen composed this remarkable jury: Edward Forbes, S. R. Reed, D. M[illegible]dorff, Joseph A Fields, Henry Miller, A [illegible] Knight, John W. Slute, Samuel Grove, [illegible] Douglas, Thomas Tucker, J B. Congle, Jas. McKay.

THE GLORY OF YOUTH.—This was the subject of a very excellent discourse delivered last evening at the Congregational Church by Rev A H Bradford, adapted especially to young men. The discourse was preached in response to a written request signed by a number of young gentlemen of the city. There was an immense jam on the occasion, the auditorium being packed to its fullest capacity. So great was the crowd that benches and chairs were placed along the aisles until every available inch of space was occupied. Notwithstanding the great jam and the warmness of the room, the discourse elicited the constant and undivided attention of the large audience from the beginning to the conclusion.

EARLY CLOSING.—On and after to morrow evening the retail dealers mentioned in the advertising columns, will close at 8 P M. This will prove a great benefit to the clerks who have very long hours. The change will afford them time to devote to other pursuits.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Clams and Oysters are received the evening of the day they are taken from the water at Tacoma, by W H Fife, who advertises elsewhere.

By reference to another column, it will be seen that the well known firm of J K Gill & Co has dissolved. Mr J B Roberts has disposed of all his interest in the book and stationery business to Mr J. K. Gill, who will continue the business at the old stand. All accounts due the late firm will be collected by Mr Gill.

THE NEW STEAMER "OHIO"—Steam was raised for the first time on Saturday on board Capt Scott's new boat, which lies at the foot of Salmon street. Work has been crowded forward with all possible expedition on this new craft for some weeks, and at length the boat is nearly finished The intention was to make a thorough trial trip on Saturday but it was found everything could not be placed [illegible] After steam was raised, the boat [illegible] as far as Oswego and returned just [illegible] the machinery a little test and to see if everything was in good working condition Only sixty pounds of steam was carried, but the little boat made very good speed The trial [illegible] very satisfactorily By the middle of [illegible] week the new boat will be ready [illegible] All that now remains to be done [illegible] up the steam jointings and [illegible] finishing touches to the cabin It was the original intention of Capt. Scott to christen the new craft the Lightwood, but he has changed his mind and will call the boat the Ohio With the machinery, boiler and upper works the Ohio draws only eight and [illegible] inches and with 100 tons of [illegible] will draw only 18 inches The Ohio will be propelled by two engines each of 25 horse power The wheel is to be driven by gearing unlike the ordinary stern wheel boats which will enable the power to be employed to [illegible] advantage Boiler engines and machinery were formerly used on the old dredger but have been thoroughly overhauled, and are about as effective as if new In the bow of the boat is placed a small engine, which is attached to the capstan When required the engine can cause the capstan to revolve very rapidly By [illegible] of a hawser, the engine and capstan the boat can be pulled up over shoals, without [illegible] to human power Capt Scott has [illegible] in the building of the Ohio, that a boat of extremely light draught can be constructed which will be able to carry considerable [illegible] of freight. No boat of cor[illegible] capacity and draught has ever been built [illegible] The Ohio is constructed with [illegible] reference to running on the upper Willamette river at all stages of water [illegible] be able to ascend with ease to points [illegible] deemed beyond the reach of navigation

Finding that he could not get out of the express in any other manner Mr Cook made a leap, falling headlong to the earth He was unable to rise, and on being assisted upon his feet, it was discovered that his leg was [illegible] As quickly as possible he was taken home and Dr C C Strong summoned, who set the limb Mr Cook's face and body is also considerably bruised by the violence of the fall He is unable to state exactly how or [illegible] his leg was broken and does not know whether it was from a kick or the fall He will be confined to his house for some time to [illegible] As soon as the horse got loose he ran [illegible] Morrison street to First and down that to Keith's saloon, with the coffin still in [illegible] tumbling from side to side At [illegible] mentioned the horse was caught

RAILROAD MEETING.

MEETING HELD AT THE COURT HOUSE BY THE CITIZENS OF PORTLAND IN THE INTEREST OF THE P, D & S L R R

A large number of the citizens of Portland assembled at the Court House last Saturday evening in response to a call signed by a great number of the business men of the city The object of such meeting was to express, by a series of resolutions, the sentiment of the community relative to the construction of the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad and to urge upon the consideration of the Legislature such action as is necessary to insure the successful inauguration of the enterprise Although quite large and a fair proportion of the taxable property of the city was represented the attendance, we regret to say, was not as large as could have been desired—certainly not so numerous as was expected

At 8 o clock Judge J H Reed called the meeting to order and nominated Chas M Carter Esq as Chairman

The motion prevailed whereupon Mr Carter came forward and took the Chair

Richard Williams Esq placed in nomination Judge J H Woollard as Secretary The motion prevailed

The Chairman announced that a statement of the objects of the meeting would now be in order

Loud calls were made for Col W W Chapman in response to which that gentleman came forward and addressed the meeting for a few minutes Col Chapman in the course of his remarks gave a succinct history of the enterprise to which he has been devoting several years of indefatigable labor giving an account of the present condition of the project its prospects of ultimate success and concluding with a statement of the objects and purposes of the present meeting It was simply to induce State legislation in favor of the enterprise and to secure aid in that direction

At the conclusion of Col Chapman's remarks Mr J H Reed moved that a committee of three be appointed to draft resolutions expressive of the sense of the meeting The motion prevailed and the chair appointed as the committee Messrs J H Reed, W W Page and Richard Williams

Judge Page was called out and spoke for a short time, urging in the strongest terms the construction of the road asking the people to invoke the aid of the State in promoting this important enterprise, which is of such vital interest to Oregon, and especially to the city of Portland

RESOLUTIONS

The committee stated that they were ready to submit their report which was handed to the Secretary who read as follows

WHEREAS, In the opinion of this meeting the construction of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad is of paramount importance in assuring the prosperity and welfare of the whole Pacific Northwest and especially so to Oregon, the said road being the great central artery connecting the North Pacific coast with the world of commerce immigration wealth and enterprise lying east of the Rocky mountains seeking easy flow to our shores to populate our country and develope the vast and varied resources agricultural mining and manufacturing thereby multiplying and enhancing the values of property and increasing the sources of revenue And

WHEREAS It is the sense of this meeting that the Columbia river is justly entitled to be styled the great commercial artery of the Pacific Northwest, opening the way through the Cascade and Coast ranges of mountains for the products of a country embraced by seven degrees of latitude and eleven degrees of longitude with unsurpassed climate, soil and productions and

WHEREAS It is the sense of this meeting that the construction of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad will so increase the industrial pursuits of our country and multiply our export trade as to lead it at an early day to the inauguration of lines of steamers from the Columbia river to China and Japan, and lines of trade and transportation through our own country between Europe and Asia assuring to the Pacific Northwest independence and commercial freedom And

WHEREAS The enterprise of the Portland Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad has progressed to a point where, in the opinion of this meeting, the State, and every lover of the country, should put forth the best efforts to assure its complete success Therefore

Resolved, That the Legislature, as a measure of the first importance, should so modify the act heretofore granted [illegible] of said road as that the consideration for the work to be performed may be available as the work shall progress, not exceeding in the aggregate $50 000 per annum, and should appropriate a sufficient sum of money to defray the preliminary expenses of prosecuting this important enterprise

J H REED
R WILLIAMS,
W W PAGE
Committee

A motion was made and seconded that the preamble and resolution as read be adopted, which received a unanimous vote

Judge J H Reed, in response to loud calls, appeared, and delivered a splendid speech of about five minutes in length in which he uttered some very plain truths and made a number of 'palpable hits' about the apparent want of enterprise of the people of the State and the public apathy which appeared to prevail on an issue so vital and the consummation of a project which would confer great and permanent benefits on the whole State Judge Reed's remarks elicited frequent applause which plainly indicated that the audience appreciated the plain truth, and that they did not belong to the class of men to which the speaker had referred

At the close of Mr Reed's remarks the meeting adjourned

OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

On Saturday afternoon a number of the [illegible] base ball players assembled on the East Portland grounds for a practice game Nines under Captains Wiley and McCraken were selected, and after about three hours play the latter's men succumbed Score, 34 to 22

In the morning the Young Pacifics beat the Young Arcadians, 32 to 29

We quote from Sunday's Statesman "The College Base Ball Club received a communication from Portland yesterday, written by some representative of the hoodlum fraternity, threatening unpleasant results under certain circumstances They wisely took no notice of the epistle realizing that no one but a hoodlum would send such a communication so foul in its language that the writer was ashamed to attach his name to it The College boys need not be alarmed as none will countenance for a moment anything as represented above Everybody here who takes an interest in base ball and we can count them by hundreds, is anxious to see the College Club play and we There is no disposition whatever on the part of the Arcadian Club to throw any obstacle in the way of the visitors, who stand high as gentlemen and ball players The College Club can rest assured that they shall receive every attention and courtesy during their visit to Portland

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT AT AN IRISH WAKE—A terrible accident says a letter from Dublin of the 8th instant occurred last night at a wake in Little Strand street, a dark and narrow thoroughfare which runs parallel with the line of quays near Essex bridge A party of between twenty and thirty persons were assembled in a room on the second floor of an old dilapidated house to express sympathy with Edward Kelly a quay porter the afflicted father of an infant two months old who died yesterday The company were reveling according to the barbarous custom of the lower classes which they cannot be persuaded to abandon when the floor gave way, and they were all precipitated to the basement with the contents of the room in an undistinguishable heap A scene of great confusion and alarm ensued The greater number were able to extricate themselves from the ruins and assisted in getting out their comrades—a task rendered more difficult by the excitement and pressure of a crowd which collected in the narrow and ill lighted space

In about a quarter of an hour all were rescued but six persons were found to have received serious injury and two of them who have been removed to the hospital were not expected to survive To add to the alarm excited by the accident a fire broke out in the ruins, but it was promptly extinguished by the exertions of the Fire Brigade The occupants of the upper part of the house expected to share the fate of those below and a woman threw her child out of the window but it was caught in the arms of a stalwart man in the crowd and escaped unhurt With the help of the police the inmates were all removed from the house There are six in the hospital The Roman Catholic clergy have endeavored by every means to put an end to the practice of wakes, which are usually hot beds of dissipation and vice but their remonstrances and warnings have proved ineffectual and the evil can only be suppressed by the strong arm of the law

SHOT HIS SISTER—CINCINNATI O Sept 1—This afternoon Oliver Saffer a man 35 years old shot his sister with a shot gun in the house of his father Judge James Saffer wounding her, it is feared, mortally He has been arrested The cause seems to have been that Oliver was drinking very hard and his sister remonstrated with him about it

UNDER RODE AND UNDER RODE

A little while and it will all be ended—
The daily drudgery and constant care—
The pains and griefs by which life's comprehended
Shall end forevermore somehow somewhere

A little while and from our busy scheming
Our brilliant hopes and all we cling to here
We shall go hence perchance to dream no dreaming
But where reality may be most dear

A little while and we will see to-morrow
And learn the mystery that lies beyond
Perhaps he has made a recompense for sorrow
In the hereafter through faith's golden bond.

A little while in which to help each other
Bear life's burthens till shall come release—
In life's hard struggle to befriend a brother
And then—peacefully to the sleep of peace

A little while and there shall be the breaking
Even at the fountain of the golden bowl—
The silver cord be loosed and dust forsaking
To God who gave it shall return the soul

A JESTING MARSHAL

Nothing that was told of the celebrated Russian Marshal Suvoroff displays better than whole pages of description the wonderful way in which he contrived to adapt himself to the rude spirits with whom he had to deal without losing one jot of his authority

What Napoleon was to the French Suvoroff was to the Russian army—now jesting with a soldier and now rebuking a General one day sharing a ration of black bread beside a bivouac fire and the next speaking as an equal to princes and potentates In fact the two great sponsors of Russian wit form a most picturesque contrast Balkareff was very much the character of a spaniel in a lion's cage—admiring even while mocking his formidable patron behaving toward him with a half waggish half affectionate familiarity, perpetually forgiven Suvoroff comes before us an uncrowned King he whose authority needed no outward symbol an autocrat of nature's making, full of rough hearty familiarity that was in no danger of breeding contempt and surrounded by men who enjoyed the bonhomie while they dreaded the displeasure of the little pug nosed grimy man, who was in their eyes the incarnation of earthly power and grandeur

It must be owned however that in his own peculiar vein of pleasantry the old Marshal more than [illegible] met with his [illegible] One of his favorite jokes was to confuse a man by asking him, unexpectedly—

"How many stars are there in the sky?"

On one occasion he put this question to one of his [illegible] on a bitter January such as only Russia can produce. The soldier not a whit disturbed answered coolly

"Wait a little and I will tell you" and he deliberately began to count "One two three etc

In this way he went gravely on to a hundred at which point Suvoroff who was already half frozen thought it high time to ride off [illegible] the name of the ready reckoner

The next day the latter found himself promoted and the story (which Suvoroff told with great glee to his staff) speedily made its way through the army

On another occasion one of the Generals of a division sent him a Sergeant with despatches at the same time recommending the bearer to Suvoroff's notice The Marshal, as usual proceeded to test him by a series of whimsical questions but the catechumen was equal to the occasion

"How far is it to the moon?" asked Suvoroff.

"Two of Your Excellency's forced marches" answered the Sergeant.

"Supposing you were blockaded and had no provisions left, how would you supply yourself?"

"From the enemy"

"How many fish are there in the sea?"

"As many as have not been caught"

And so the examination went on, till Suvoroff finding his new acquaintance armed at all points at length asked him as a final poser

"What [illegible] your Colonel and myself?"

"The difference [illegible]" replied the soldier coolly, "my Colonel cannot make me a captain but Your Excellency has only to say the word"

Suvoroff [illegible] kept his eyes upon the [illegible] is no longer [illegible] trifles—[illegible] the camp in disguise, [illegible] giving the signal for attack by crowing like a cock his astounding endurance of heat or cold his savage disregard of [illegible]—are beyond calculation but perhaps the most characteristic of all was his appearance in 1799 at the Austrian Court then one of the most brilliant in Europe.

On being shown to the room prepared for him (a splendid apartment filled with costly mirrors and rich furniture) this modern Diogenes said simply

"Turn out the rubbish, and shake me down some straw"

An Austrian grandee who came to visit him was startled at these preparations and still more so at the first sight of the Marshal's baggage which consisted of two coarse shirts and a tattered cloak tied up in a bundle

"Is that enough for winter?" asked the astonished visitor

"The winter is the father of us Russians" answered Suvoroff with a grin, "besides you don't feel the cold when you're riding full gallop"

"But when you are tired of riding what do you do?"

"Walk"

"But when you're tired of walking?"

"Run"

"And do you never sleep then?" asked the petrified questioner

"Sometimes, when I've nothing better to do," [illegible], "and when I want to have a very luxurious nap, I take off one of my spurs"

The thunderstruck Austrian bowed and retired doubtless considerably enlightened in his ideas of a Russian General

"THOSE [illegible]" [illegible] is reported to have told the following anecdote Out in Nevada there was a queer character by the name of Pokebury He was a lawyer of some promise, but came to nothing through drink Losing all his clients he went to mining, and joined a miner by the name of Spokes At the end of a week Pokebury appeared in town with a black eye, a swollen nose, and lacerated garment Of course we were anxious to know all about it. 'Well, you see,' said he, 'Billy and I were partners, and I like Billy for he's a well-meaning man for an uneducated man But Billy and I dissolved partnership; we settled and struck—that is we struck each other, and Billy settled Our first difference was of an astronomical character We divided the day different Billy divided on 6 A M and I divided on 10 A M and Billy instead of allowing for astronomical difference said I was a lazy dog But I didn't mind that, for Billy was my partner you see, and had a right to his views. Then we differed on ablution Billy abluted before breakfast and said I was a dirty dog for you see I always abluted after breakfast But I didn't mind that for people will differ and so long as the difference don't affect business what's the odds? But the third difference was just a little too much for me. We were sitting down to beans and slapjacks, and Billy blowing about my being a greedy dog when suddenly, the fellow said to me, I'd thank you for those molasses' That was too much—no man can say those [illegible] to me and live and I just took him in the countenance with a right hander that settled him and his darned insulting bad grammar together That's the way we dissolved I'm in town and I guess Bill will be here in a couple of weeks

A MODEL SETTLEMENT —A company consisting of General Shields O J Abbott of Santa Barbara (who holds the second highest State office among the California Grangers) and others, has purchased 46,400 acres of land near Point Conception Santa Barbara county, with the intention of founding a model settlement Six hundred and eighty acres have been reserved for a town site, and the surrounding land is to be divided into parcels of 40 and 80 acres open to settlers on easy terms A novel feature of the enterprise is that all deeds will contain a stringent cold water clause with a covenant not to buy or sell liquors in the settlement It may admit of doubt whether after purchase and possession the prohibitory clause can be legally enforced —S F Chronicle

Edmund Yates the novelist has written a letter denying the accusation that he caricatured in his latest novel American celebrities whose hospitalities he accepted while in this country, and saying that the six months he passed in America were the pleasantest of his life

Wheat in Liverpool by mail advices from San Francisco 9s [illegible] for average California and 10s [illegible] for club

Some disposition to [illegible] in the local money market is noticed but the [illegible] movement is not important The fact that when the crops are ready to be moved and the grain trade revive there will be a very large and steady demand for funds for this purpose renders the holders of funds for investment more independent. However we see no reason to doubt that the supply of capital in our state together with the addition of the outside aid furnished will be ample to meet all the requirements of the grain trade without any thing like the stringency in financial circles felt last fall As remarked by the Reporter of this date bankers show a desire to accommodate none but their regular customers and are husbanding their resources for the use of those who may enter the grain market when the season has fully opened Should the wheat come forward slowly the surplus coin now in the hands of bankers will be sufficient for all purposes, but in the emergency of large and rapid receipts additional funds will have to be imported from below to meet the demand. In the open market there seems to be an abundance of money but the demand is by no means as great as the supply owing to the fact that but few thoughtful persons are willing to borrow at present rates of interest for purely speculative purposes

Grain and Provision Report.

Chicago elevators at the commencement of business last Monday Aug 31st, contained 4,463,[illegible] bushels of grain embracing 1,579,[illegible] bushels of wheat 2,168,9[illegible] bushels of corn 530,518 bushels of oats, 21,[illegible] bushels of rye and 41,[illegible] bushels of barley against 3,59[illegible] bushels one week ago and 5,63[illegible] bushels at this period last year

Milwaukee warehouses at the close of business on Saturday Aug 29th contained 31,[illegible] bushels of wheat, 14,946 bushels of No 2 oats 16,4[illegible] bushels of No 2 corn 2,1[illegible] bushels of No 1 rye 1,032 bushels of No 1 barley and 472 bushels of No 3 barley

The [illegible] of grain in [illegible] Monday Aug 31st, was 130,000 bushels of wheat 25,000 bushels of corn and 7,000 bushels of oats.

The visible supply of grain in the United States and Canada Aug 22 was Wheat 7,901,791 bushels corn 6,[illegible],867 bushels oats 1,466,637 bushels barley 95,478 bushels

The exports of breadstuffs and provisions from the ports of Portland New York Philadelphia Baltimore Boston and New Orleans for the week ending Aug 29th, were Pork 3,579 barrels lard 1,294,000 pounds bacon [illegible] pounds flour 11,436 barrels wheat 529,000 bushels corn [illegible],000 bushels rye 31,000 bushels

About the Crops and Rain.

The Eugene Journal of the 12th inst says Rain commenced falling last Monday night and has continued at intervals about half of each night and day since. Thursday about noon it poured down for a few minutes in true Eastern style, literally covering the surface of the ground This is very unusual for Oregon where it seldom rains beyond a slow drizzle and unusual for this season of the year A large amount of harvesting remains unfinished in this part of the valley yet, and no doubt some damage will be caused by the unexpected rain.

Wm Lentz sold the first load of grain this season in Baker City last week for 1c [illegible]

The hop-raisers of Puyallup are now busily engaged in picking and drying their crop

The Olympia Transcript of last Saturday says Owing to the prevalence of southerly winds during the past week it has rained nearly every day—rather unusual for this Sound country The smoke which had begun to obscure our view of the Olympic range has been driven away, and for the remainder of our autumn we shall not be annoyed from that source however we may expect dusty streets within a fortnight. Grangers are hindered from threshing grain but not seriously damaged and grass will be greatly benefited.

Harvest is very nearly over up the valley. Header beds are being laid aside and grain laden teams in large numbers are to be seen wending their way [illegible] that not more than half the grain on the South Fork of the Yamhill has yet been harvested. The rains for the last few days will be very apt to do an immense amount of damage to that still standing in the fields.

It is estimated that 100,000 bushels of wheat will be stored at Buena Vista, Polk county this fall

The Mountaineer has been shown a specimen of wheat raised by Mr John Graham of Klickitat, W. T that was sown in May last since which time it had not received any rain or water of any kind except that naturally in the ground The result was 26 bushels to the acre notwithstanding the grasshoppers got away with about one fourth of it. It is of the Club variety and is a very pretty plump grain

Mr Lemasters on the McCormack ranch raised on six acres, 365½ bushels of wheat, machine measure making an average of 61 bushels per acre not counting about 25 bushels which could not be cut and was run over by the headers So says the Eugene Guard

And now at this day comes I. E Stevens who deposes and says that at the end of 25 days run he had cut 509 acres of grain and threshed 12,000 bushels of which 2,200 were oats The largest day's run was 710 bushels of wheat.

The Salem Statesman says The largest and in fact about the only sale of grain of any magnitude this season was effected by the Moores Brothers, to Kinney & Sons of this city They sold 600 tons—the crop from their extensive farm near Eugene City The terms are private, but it is known that it was somewhat above the present quotations. Small amounts of grain might be sold in Salem at 75 cents per bushel but this is above the market 65 cents being about the market value Oats are comparatively quiet, no market price having been established for the new crop Thirty five cents has been offered without any sales being effected It is hopeful that when the boats begin to run some life may be added to our grain market, as well as to business generally

The Eugene Guard has this Some of our farmers who were storing wheat with Mr J C Berry did not seem to fancy his way of storing which was to ship it off as fast as received and we are informed that he has agreed to ship no more below unless with the consent of owners It strikes us that about as good a thing as Mr Berry could want would be to have the use of the amount of wheat which will naturally come to his warehouse this season [illegible] five cents per bushel storage

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The receipts of the cereal are slightly increasing, but owing to the fact that they are so small [illegible] the vessels in port will all scarcely be loaded before the end of the month without a still greater flow of the grain seaward. We learn that the mills are paying a little better figure than exporters can [illegible]. Of the vessels here [illegible] in number but [illegible] have begun to receive any part of their cargo and neither of these is loaded Buyers are hardly so plentiful as last year and those in the market seem to be pretty thoroughly united on the [illegible] [illegible] Offers for lots delivered here are no higher than they were one week ago though [illegible] the market is stiffer We can hear of no bids above $[illegible] per cental. Unless the reports from Europe are colored to aid the wheat buyers to reduce the price of wheat in this country there is more than an average crop of wheat in the leading continental countries of Europe and some of them will have a liberal surplus to spare While Great Britain will still require a large amount the demand from that country will be less than usual Under these circumstances we can not see any [illegible] advance in the wheat market

FLOUR—The receipts of the product of the new wheat crop are more liberal and as the millers have been able to procure the raw material at lower rates their product is tending downward accordingly The decline since our last weekly review has been [illegible] ₱ bbl and the best brands of extras are jobbing at [illegible] ₱ bbl good country brands $4 [illegible] fine $3 7[illegible] and superfine $1 Cargo lots could probably be secured at even better terms.

OATS—The receipts from the interior still adequately supply the current demand which is not extensive The new crop being much lighter than was anticipated holders are feeling encouraged by the prospect but as yet there has been no advance on our last quotations In fact at this writing prices are weak at 43 cents per bushel for choice in sacks. The crop this year it is now thought will fall 20 per cent below what was estimated two months ago

BARLEY—From reports concerning the harvest there is no doubt but the yield is good—fully up to the average The crop has been saved in good condition and prices realized are satisfactory while the future of the market seems to be encouraging We quote choice at $1 50 per 100 lbs including sacks common and feed $1 1[illegible]@1 40

FEED—The supplies are rather better but prices remain steady at $1[illegible]@14 per ton for bran $16@18 for shorts and $[illegible]@30 for chops, middlings, etc.

HAY—The receipts are fair for the season and quotations firm at $10@11 per ton for choice baled timothy $9@10 per load from wagons Wild hay is not wanted

POTATOES—The receipts have somewhat fallen off and for choice lots prices are better We quote best qualities in sacks at 40 cents per bushel Inferior 30@35 cents

ONIONS—The market is in fair supply prices depending much on the quality of offers and the wants of buyers The shipping demand is not active, and quotations range from $1 [illegible] per 100 pounds.

FRUIT—The market is abundantly supplied with several varieties and as much of it is very perishable, prices for the most part depend upon the wants of buyers and quotations that are good for one day may be far from correct twenty four hours later Choice apples for shipping neatly boxed are worth 60@65c per box loose from wagons 40@50c peaches quotable at [illegible] ₱ lb plums 10@[illegible] pears 40@[illegible] per box watermelons 10@25c musk [illegible]

DRIED FRUITS—The market is dull at [illegible] ₱ lb for apples in sacks and [illegible] in kegs Plums and peaches are unchanged.

BACON—The receipts are very small and prices continue firm with an advancing tendency Choice side meats are in brisk demand at 11@[illegible] ₱ lb shoulders and hams are also scarce in fair demand and quotable at [illegible] for the former and [illegible] for the latter

LARD—We note no change in the condition of our home market, quotations standing at 11@15c ₱ lb in kegs and tins

BUTTER—The recent receipts have been light and prices are better than at our last report We quote choice roll at 30c common [illegible]@25c ₱ lb

CHEESE—Oregon made is more plentiful, but prices are sustained at [illegible] in jobbing rates

EGGS—The receipts this week have increased and under advices from San Francisco prices have declined to 25@27c ₱ dozen

POULTRY—The supply of chickens is not excessive and all offering are freely taken at $4@4 50 for choice lots of grown ₱ dozen and $3 for spring Ducks tame $5 wild $[illegible] geese $9@10 ₱ doz

LIVESTOCK—The arrivals during the week have been large, and to find ready sale, cattle or sheep must be No 1 We quote choice beef cattle, on foot at 3c inferior 2½@3c. Best mutton sheep $2 50@3 common $1 7[illegible] ₱ head [illegible] blemishes reduction is made

WOOL—Prices are nominally firm at 28@30c for finest washed and [illegible] for common
